Interviewing was carried out during the exceptional circumstances of the COVID-19 outbreak. The survey findings for the third quarter of 2021 are likely to reflect the impact of the global health emergency, and may be notably different to previous quarters.

Irish employers report upbeat hiring intentions for the third quarter of 2021. With 21% of employers expecting to increase payrolls, 3% forecasting a decrease and 73% anticipating no change, the Net Employment Outlook is +18%.

Once the data is adjusted to allow for seasonal variation, the Outlook stands at +15%, and is the strongest reported in 14 years. Hiring intentions improve by 15 percentage points when compared with the previous quarter, and are 27 percentage points stronger when compared with this time one year ago, when COVID-19 first had an impact on hiring sentiment.

Throughout this report, we use the term "Net Employment Outlook." This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating total employment to increase and subtracting from this the percentage expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook.

From this point forward, all data discussed in the commentary is seasonally adjusted, unless stated otherwise.

Organisation-Size Comparisons

Participating employers are categorized into one of four organization sizes: Micro businesses have less than 10 employees; Small businesses have 10–49 employees; Medium businesses have 50–249 employees; and Large businesses have 250 or more employees.

Employers in all four organization size categories expect to grow payrolls in the third quarter of 2021. The strongest hiring prospects are reported by Large- and Medium-size employers with healthy Net Employment Outlooks of +29% and +24%, respectively. Elsewhere, Small firms report respectable hiring plans with an Outlook of +15%, and the Outlook for the Micro size category stands at +11%.

Hiring sentiment improves in all four organization size categories when compared with the previous quarter, most notably by 30 percentage points for Medium employers. Outlooks are 15 and 13 percentage points stronger for Small- and Micro-size employers, respectively, while Large employers report an increase of 6 percentage points.

In a comparison with the same period in 2020 – when COVID-19 first had an impact on hiring plans – Outlooks also strengthen in all four organization size categories. Steep improvements of 46 and 44 percentage points are reported by Medium- and Large-size employers, respectively. Small employers report an increase of 23 percentage points and the Outlook for Micro firms improves by 18 percentage points.

International Comparisons – Americas

ManpowerGroup interviewed more than 17,000 employers in 10 countries across North, Central and South America about hiring prospects for the third quarter of 2021. In all 10 countries, employers expect workforce gains during the upcoming quarter.

The labor market in the U.S. is expected to be the strongest of all 43 countries in the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey over the next three months. U.S. employers report their strongest hiring intentions in 21 years, with solid workforce growth anticipated in all four regions. Workforce gains are expected in all 12 industry sectors, most notably in the Leisure & Hospitality and Education & Health Services sectors, with their strongest Outlooks since they were first analyzed in 2009, and in the Wholesale & Retail Trade sector, where the Outlook matches the strongest since the survey started in 1982.

Canada's employers expect the fair hiring climate to continue in the third quarter of 2021, reporting no change over the previous quarter. With payrolls expected to grow in all 10 industry sectors, the strongest third quarter hiring activity is forecast for the Public Administration and Durable Goods Manufacturing sectors.

Employers report encouraging signs for job seekers in Mexico during the July to September period, with a slight uptick in hiring prospects when compared with the prior quarter. Employers in all seven Mexican industry sectors expect to grow payrolls, including the Manufacturing sector where the Outlook is the strongest reported in two years.

In Central America, hiring sentiment among Costa Rican employers has recovered following the pandemic, and now stands at a three-year high, driven in part by strengthening labor markets in the Transport & Communication and Manufacturing sectors. Panamanian employers report their first positive hiring intentions since the final quarter of 2019, in part fueled by the strongest Services sector Outlook in three years. Employers in Guatemala report cautiously optimistic hiring plans for the July to September period, with the strongest Outlook in more than three years forecast for the Manufacturing sector.

The strongest labor market in South America is anticipated in Brazil, although hiring plans for the country remain modest. Reflecting the impact of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, employers in the Manufacturing, Construction, Services and Wholesale & Retail sectors all report weaker hiring prospects when compared with the prior quarter.

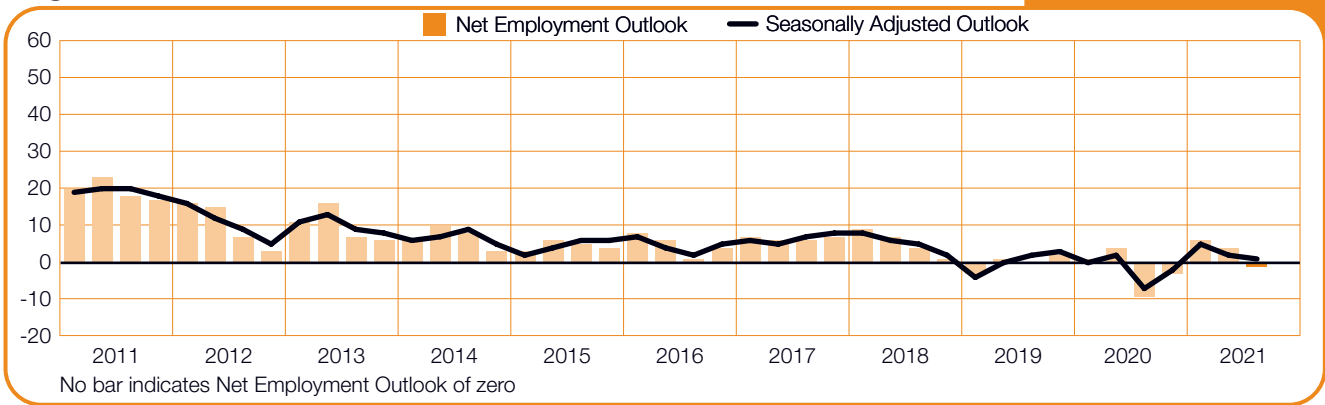

Hiring sentiment in Argentina remains cautious for the third quarter of 2021, with employers anticipating limited job gains. Employers in the Services and Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sectors expect to trim payrolls, but hiring plans are more positive for the Agriculture & Fishing sector, where the Outlook is the strongest in four years.

Colombian employers expect the mild hiring pace to continue in the forthcoming quarter, reporting a relatively stable Outlook. While hiring in the Manufacturing sector continues to be soft, Mining sector employers report their strongest hiring plans in two years and forecasts strengthen for the Agriculture & Fishing and Wholesale & Retail Trade sectors.

In Peru, employers report limited hiring activity for the next three months, with the Construction sector Outlook remaining weak for a second consecutive quarter. However, employers in the Mining sector report considerably improved hiring prospects.

International Comparisons – Asia Pacific

More than 10,000 employers in the seven Asia Pacific countries and territories took part in the ManpowerGroup survey on hiring prospects for the July to September time frame. Employers in six of the seven countries and territories expect to add to payrolls during the next three months, while a flat labor market is expected in one.

The Chinese labor market is forecast to make a strong recovery from the impact of the pandemic during the coming quarter, with employers reporting the strongest hiring intentions in six years. Workforce gains are expected in all six Chinese industry sectors, with the strongest hiring sentiment reported in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate, Services, Manufacturing and the Wholesale & Retail Trade sectors – Outlooks for these four sectors are also the strongest reported in at least six years.

For the fourth consecutive quarter, the strongest hiring climate in the Asia Pacific region is expected in Taiwan, fueled in part by bright hiring plans for the Mining & Construction sector and a brisk hiring pace in the Manufacturing sector, where the Outlook for the coming quarter is the strongest in six years.

However, Hong Kong employers expect the subdued labor market to continue during the next three months, forecasting flat hiring activity overall, although limited payroll growth is expected in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate and Services sectors.

In India, employers expect a modest increase in payrolls during the upcoming quarter, although hiring sentiment is slightly weaker when compared with the prior quarter, reflecting the ongoing impact of COVID-19 in the country. While the Manufacturing sector labor market continues to be relatively stable, the Services sector is slightly weaker when compared to the prior quarter and the Outlook in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector is the weakest since the survey began in 2005.

The upbeat hiring pace in Australia is expected to continue during the July to September period. The strongest hiring prospects in 10 years are reported by employers in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector while the Services sector forecast improves sharply year-over-year. Elsewhere, the Mining & Construction sector is the strongest in more than two years following four consecutive quarters of improvement.

Steady payroll growth is anticipated in Singapore for a third consecutive quarter, driven in part by an active labor market in the Finance, Insurance & Real Estate sector where employers report the strongest Outlook in more than six years and a steep increase year-over-year in the Services sector, while the Manufacturing sector forecast is the strongest in nine years.

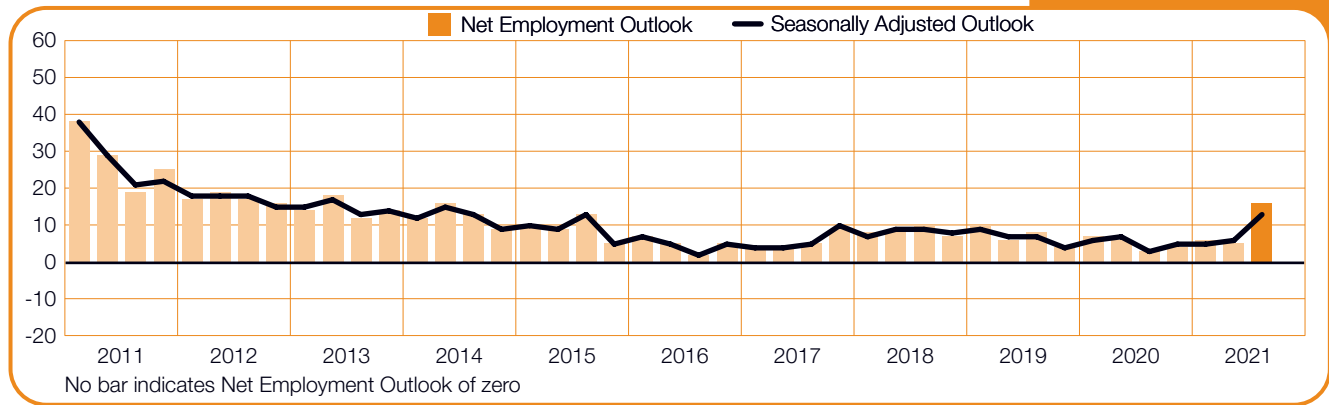

Job seekers in Japan can expect a fair hiring pace in the next three months, according to employers who report a moderate increase in hiring prospects when compared with the previous quarter. Hiring sentiment strengthens in all seven Japanese industry sectors when compared with three months ago, most notably in the Manufacturing, Wholesale & Retail Trade and Services sectors.

International Comparisons – EMEA

Employers in more than 17,700 businesses were surveyed in the Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region on hiring intentions for the third quarter of 2021, as part of the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey. Employers in all 26 EMEA countries surveyed anticipate payroll gains during the next three months.

An increase in payrolls is anticipated for all three of the largest Eurozone economies during the July to September period, with hiring sentiment strengthening both quarter-over-quarter and year-over-year. German employers expect a return to pre-COVID-19 levels of hiring in the upcoming quarter, driven in part by favorable hiring plans in the Finance & Business Services sector while employers in the Manufacturing sector report their strongest hiring intentions in two years.

French employers report encouraging signs for job seekers in the coming quarter, anticipating an increase in payrolls across all industry sectors and regions. A steady hiring pace is forecast by Finance & Business Services and Wholesale & Retail Trade sector employers while in the Restaurant & Hotels sector employers are cautiously optimistic for the quarter ahead. Hiring sentiment in Italy returns to the level seen before the pandemic, fueled in part by the strongest Construction sector hiring prospects since the survey began in 2003 and an upbeat hiring pace in the Wholesale & Retail sector. However, Restaurants & Hotels sector employers continue to trim payrolls, for the fifth consecutive quarter.

In the UK, employers report their strongest hiring plans since 2015, with payrolls expected to grow in eight of nine sectors and 11 of 12 regions during the upcoming quarter. Encouraging signs are reported by employers in the Finance & Business Services and Hotels & Retail sectors, while the Outlook for the Community & Social sector is the strongest in five years.

The Outlook for Spain continues to improve quarter-over-quarter as it recovers from the impact of the pandemic. The improvement is driven in part by favorable hiring plans for the Other Services sector and cautious optimism in the Finance & Business Services sector, although the slump in the Restaurants & Hotels sector is expected to continue.

Hiring sentiment in Belgium returns to pre-pandemic levels for the coming quarter with considerable year-over-year improvements in all seven industry sectors and steady hiring plans in the Finance & Business Services and Other Services sectors. Employers in the Manufacturing and Other Production sectors anticipate their strongest hiring climate since 2009. In the Netherlands, employers report a cautiously optimistic Outlook as the recovery from the pandemic continues, with job gains expected in all seven industry sectors, most notably for the Finance & Business Services and Other Services sectors.

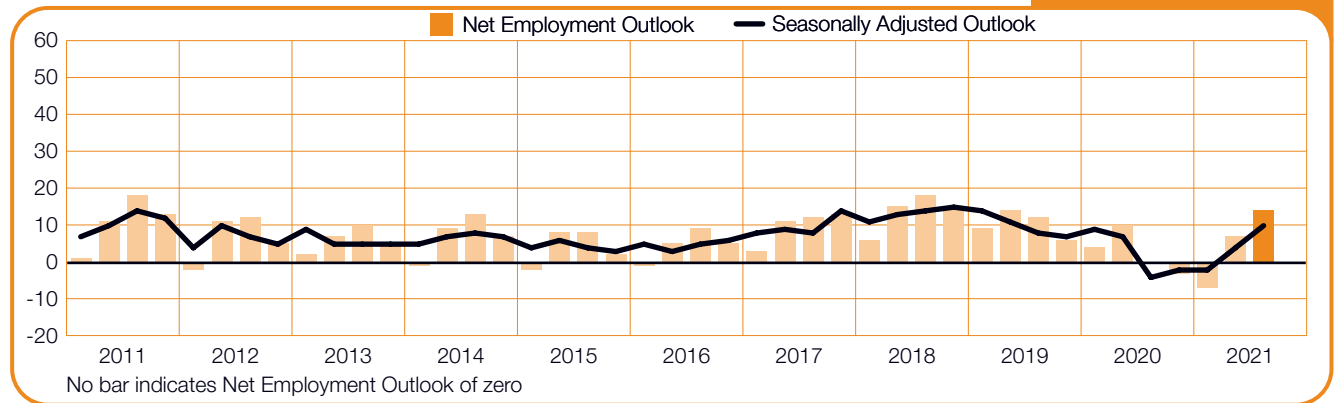

In Norway, employers anticipate respectable workforce gains during the July to September period, with hiring prospects for the Finance & Business Services sector at their strongest in more than eight years and an upbeat forecast in the Other Production sector. However, hiring sentiment in the Restaurants & Hotels sector remains gloomy. The Outlook for Sweden is the strongest reported in two years, reflecting a healthy hiring pace in the Finance & Business Services sector and positive hiring plans for the Wholesale & Retail Trade sector.

The Polish labor market is expected to hold steady in the third quarter of 2021, with payroll gains anticipated in six of seven industry sectors. Hiring activity will likely be strongest in the Construction and Manufacturing sectors, while Restaurants & Hotels sector employers expect the strongest hiring pace in three years.

The strongest hiring prospects across the EMEA region as a whole are reported in Greece and Ireland. Greek employers anticipate an upbeat hiring climate in the next three months, based on solid hiring plans for the Construction, Finance & Business Services and Manufacturing sectors. In Ireland, hiring prospects are the strongest reported since 2007, buoyed in part by a brisk hiring pace in the Construction and Pharmaceuticals sectors.

About the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted quarterly to measure employers' intentions to increase or decrease the number of employees in their workforces during the next quarter. ManpowerGroup's comprehensive forecast of employer hiring plans has been running for more than 55 years and is one of the most trusted surveys of employment activity in the world. Various factors underpin the success of the ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey:

Unique: It is unparalleled in its size, scope, longevity and area of focus.

Projective: The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is the most extensive, forward-looking employment survey in the world, asking employers to forecast employment over the next quarter. In contrast, other surveys and studies focus on retrospective data to report on what occurred in the past.

Independent: The survey is conducted with a representative sample of employers from throughout the countries and territories in which it is conducted. The survey participants are not derived from ManpowerGroup's customer base.

Robust: For Quarter 3 2021, sample sizes are smaller than other quarters, reflecting the impact of the global health emergency so total number of interviews is significantly lower than normal in some countries. The survey is based on interviews with over 45,000 public and private employers across 43 countries and territories to measure anticipated employment trends each quarter. This sample allows for analysis to be performed across specific sectors and regions to provide more detailed information.

Focused: For more than five decades the survey has derived all of its information from a single question:

For the Quarter 3 2021 research, all employers participating in the survey worldwide are asked the same question, "How do you anticipate total employment at your location to change in the three months to the end of September 2021 as compared to the current quarter?"

Methodology

The ManpowerGroup Employment Outlook Survey is conducted using a validated methodology, in accordance with the highest standards in market research. The survey has been structured to be representative of each national economy. The margin of error for almost all national, regional and global data is not greater than +/- 5%.

Throughout this report, we use the term "Net Employment Outlook." This figure is derived by taking the percentage of employers anticipating an increase in hiring activity and subtracting from this the percentage of employers expecting to see a decrease in employment at their location in the next quarter. The result of this calculation is the Net Employment Outlook. Net Employment Outlooks for countries and territories that have accumulated at least 17 quarters of data are reported in a seasonally adjusted format unless otherwise stated.

Seasonal adjustments have been applied to the data for all participating countries except Croatia. ManpowerGroup intends to add seasonal adjustments to the data for Croatia in the future, as more historical data is compiled.
